

Bread God:

A D&D Deity Option

By: Erdans Homebrew

*After trying and trying to summon even the smallest and sloggyest bit of dough only after years of such disappointments have I been able to create a full crusty loaf. Every pastry I make takes energy, focus, and devotion; just like in battle or prayer. I never gave up. I was persistent and thats what got me here.
I love baking, battling, and praying.*

- Nurgle; Council Crafter, Garlic Expert and Baker, Witchlight Monarch

Image "He Got His Bread by Devin Elle Kurtz"

Introduction: Fighting Bakers

One of the most unusual types of cleric or paladin you could meet in the known universe specialize in a more tender and tasteful oaths or domains. These holy warriors not only battle evil with hammer and blade but have the capability to retreat to more peaceful and productive pastime, baking.

In this Dungeons & Dragons® 5th edition Homebrew supplement the more broad and general information is presented for garlic bread clerics and paladins. For players and DMs alike the history, common beliefs, and a few useful details of bread god worshipers are provided in this Erdans Homebrew supplement.

Using this supplement

This supplement is optional for any DM to use, adjust, modify, or change anything within it to suit their needs. Players should stick to the generally balanced rules presented within. The bread god is set in the Forgotten Realms® setting but can be adapted in any setting or world.

This supplement might reference the following D&D fifth edition rulebooks Players Handbook, and Xanathar's Guide to Everything.

In addition, appendices A - C might be referenced in the supplement and provide more rule-based content.

Image "DnD Cook"

Abbreviations

The following abbreviations may be used throughout this supplement.

pp = platinum piece(s)
gp = gold piece(s)
sp = electrum piece(s) ep = silver piece(s)
cp = copper piece(s)

FR = Forgotten Realms® setting
CG/CE = Chaotic Good/Evil
LG/LE = Lawful Good/Evil
NG/NE = Neutral Good/Evil
D&D = Dungeons & Dragons®

Sidebar: Credits

Note to reader that some of the information presented within this supplement is not mine and the creation of someone else. Otherwise none of the information is canon lore unless stated so and is the compilation of my imagination. See Appendix C for a list of all credits to other authors and artists.

Chapter 1: Origins and Beliefs

Origins

It is unknown who was and when the first cleric of bread and baking came to be. Some scholars speculate that the first ever cleric of bread in Faerûn came around with the dwarven pantheon with a rare follower or two. Due to Moradin's and other Dwarven gods growing renown this single god of baking lost all of its followers and morphed into a god of aspect of Berronar Truesilver or Moradin.

Today in the Realms, a unique cleric or paladin might pray before baking a pastry and become surprised when some sort of deity responds to their plea. This single lesser god of bread and food appears to offer their followers healing powers along with some more spicy variants.

Due to the expansive types of bread solely baked in Faerûn throughout different cultural and geographical differences the single lesser god cannot broaden its domain of influence. A peaceful and honest deity, the unnamed bread god showcases its influence by allowing its followers to summon pieces of bread within their palms, some even being able to bake multiple times faster than a common baker.

Bread god clerics are praised by many nobles and bakeries where a little divine help is always appreciated. In addition to bringing a productive boost the establishment employing a cleric of the bread domain feels assured that they are under protection of a higher being.

Some baking paladin or cleric might be forced to take on the adventuring life and put their food giving skills to healthy use. An adventure party with a bread god blessed individual will never go hungry and always enjoy warm pastries during rests. While few traveling cleric and paladins of the bread god exist, these unique examples hold to their hearts some strong beliefs and morals which come with the artisanal skill of baking.

Beliefs

When taking a oath or domain for a cleric or paladin of the bread domain, it is highly important for that individual to be devoted to the job of baking and giving away (sometimes for free as alms) the fruits of their labors.

Alignment. The bread god usually takes on a LG alignment although a rare and more zesty types of CG exist. Furthermore, some unusual paladins might take on a more plain approach to their baking, thus leaning to NG.

Image "Orc Waiter by JohnoftheNorth on DeviantArt"

Domains. The bread god takes on a more peaceful domains such as Life, Fertility, and Creation. The Creation domain can be found in Complete Divine and Spell Compendium which are 3rd and 3.5 edition D&D books.

Clerics

---

Temples

While it is very rare for a temple to be dedicated to a god of baking and bread, a few might exist. If these temples do function they would be placed in some small corner of a grand metropolis. Clerics of such an temple would be tasked with blessing the grain and even baking in communal ovens massive amounts of bread to give out to the community.

Below is a table with a varying descriptions of temples which could be dedicated to a bread god:

1d6	Temple
1	A ancient dwarven bakery, with etched runes over every oven door to an bread god.
2	A very prosperous bakery in the center of a metropolis with many acclaimed bread god devotees.
3	The local bakery in a remote settlement blessed by the bread god himself.
4	A bakery operating in the Upper Planes, serving bread to the gods.
5	A isolated corner in a great fortress tasked with providing fresh and non-perishable goods for the troops stationed there.
6	Found in an elven city, the unique bakery experiments with exquisite pastries.

Keepsakes

Since most clerics possess some item or another definingly placed between their personal belongings. While a warrior-priest might wear some banner or a cleric of knowledge hold a book, bread clerics tend to possess some special tool essential in the craft of baking. Below is a list of possible items your cleric might possess, giving them a more unique trait of how they perfect their baking process:

1d6	Keepsakes
1	A wooden cutting board with thousands of incisions.
2	A clump of dough from which a small portion you always keep.
3	A brick from the ovens of Hell.

4	The dried cracker of one of your ancestors.
5	A bread knife with which you always cut any loaf of bread.
6	A cookbook from your great-great-great grandmother.

Secret

Bread clerics are not exception to the temptation of dark desires and secrets which most mortal individual possess. Some more ominous desires may spring into the minds of a baker, with clerics of the bread god having to fight or at least conceal these dark secrets. Below is a list of secrets or desires your character might have in connection with their skill of baking:

1d6	Secret
1	You believe that the bread god is actually an aspect of a devil or demon, simply obsessed with baking people.
2	During times of distress, you find yourself putting poisonous ingredients into your baking.
3	You have nightmare of burning in an oven and fear that maybe your destiny as a baker is over.
4	You became a baker after you baked your favorite pet into a bread loaf.
5	Even though you are blessed in baking bread you always believe that you should have never became a culinary artist.
6	You feel as if every bite taken from your bread nibbles a piece of your soul.

Paladins

Orders

Many paladins swear their souls and arms to a order. Since not many orders exist which would fight in the name of a bread god most paladins take to being food providers in bigger orders and military groups. Below is a list of some sub-branches in paladin orders across Toril:

1d6	Order
1	Battlefield baker (Purple Dragon Knights)
2	Order of the Knights of Pie (Order of the Gauntlet)
3	Waterdeep Baker Expert (Waterhavian specialist in military rations)

4	Baker of the True Gods (Sword of the True Gods of Zakhara)
5	Baker of Moradin (Hammers of Moradin)
6	Royal Baker of Tortilla (Eagle Knights of Maztica ration packer and baker)

Personal Goal

Even though every paladin focuses on fulfilling their orders goals some paladins also embark on their personal journeys. A paladin of the bread god might attempt to create the perfect non-perishable ration or craft the most nutritious loaf possible. Below is a list of possible personal goals a paladin might take to heart:

1d6	Personal Goal
1	Growth. You bake bread and fight off evil in the hopes of expanding future communities.
2	Distribution. Through fair and just splitting of your baked goods can your goal be fulfilled.
3	Perfection. The more perfect and flawless your bread the greater reputation you could accumulate.
4	Aid. By underlying distribution of bread in you community/order you can help the people.
5	Community. The bread god supports strong communal bonds, and you are its messenger.
6	Glory. You seek to be remembered by the greatness of your products and deeds.

Symbol

All paladins wear some sort of emblem or holy symbol of their deity. While a paladin of Moradin might have their hammer struck with the Dwarven gods holy symbol, a paladin of Torm could hold a small amulet. Below is a list of possible symbols a paladin of the bread god might wear on their armor or trinket:

1d6	Symbol
1	A rolling pin, symbolizing your ties to the kitchen and your preferred culinary tool.
2	A breadknife crossed over a cutting board, indicating your tools as well as your preferred weapons (shield & sword).

3	A open oven door, symbolizing your fiery temper in battle and the kitchen.
4	A loaf of bread, emblematic of your final product and allegiance to the bread god.
5	A open hand with a lump of dough, signifying your room for growth in cooking and fighting.
6	A whisker, symbolizing your ability to mix your culinary skills with sword in battle.

Nemesis

In every case of a paladin, some sworn enemy or opposition will arise. In the case of a baker more business related nemesis might appear. Just as these business nemesis might not be physical fighter the threat is just a present as if facing off a orc in combat. Below is a list of possible nemesis your character might be trying to fight through to reach their personal goal:

1d6	Nemesis
1	A community baker who will do everything in his power to stay in business, including more sly methods.
2	A fiend from the Lower Planes which was tasked to make you break your oath.
3	A noble who once ate spoiled bread of yours and has been trying to hinder you at every step in your baking business.
4	A rival paladin who deems baking as a sin and wants you to abandon your religion.
5	A mighty hill giant which eats most of your bread every month and keeps sending death threats if you stop baking.
6	A dragon who has taken a liking to your baking but wants more fleshing pastries.

Temptation

Just like all followers of any god, retainers of the bread god are no exception to the temptations of the physical world. Some darker desires may arise within a paladin's ego as they seek to fulfill their oath. Below is a list of temptations your character may succumb to as being a paladin of the bread god:

1d6	Temptations
1	Pride. Your baking accomplishments are noteworthy but you take note of them more than anyone.

2	Greed. The more recipes, gold, and business you can have the better.
3	Perfection. You go go out of your way to make your pastries flawless, sometimes resorting to illegal means to reach that perfection.
4	Revenge. If you ever see a hated individual again you will ‘accidentally” poison that piece of bread.
5	Envy. However hard you try you cannot reach the level of renown as other bakers have.
6	Fame. You would go to great length just to be the most famous baker in all of the region.

Sidebar: Xanathars Guide to Everything

The above detailed lists of cleric and paladin principles, history, and personality traits has been adapted from the Xanathars Guide to Everything cleric and paladin sections (pg. 17, 36-37).

Chapter 2: Bread & other goods

Bread Types in the Forgotten Realms

Below is a list of all of the commonly known bread types and varieties in Toril (the planet for the Forgotten Realms setting). As a player feel free to spice up your knowledge and types of bread your character can create. In the case of a DM, knowing all the more about the detailed cultural aspects in the Forgotten Realms can leaven your game.

In the table below each bread name, price, and description are listed in alphabetical order by the name. All of the information presented in this table is canon lore of the Forgotten Realms. Due to many references to regions and continents in the Forgotten Realms please see the sidebar Forgotten Realms Wiki at the end of this chapter for details on the diverse and culturally packed world of Toril.

Image “Loaf of Bread, Jari Hirvikoski”

Name	Price (per loaf)	Description
Bagel	unknown	A chewy roll from Greenfields with a hole in the middle and sprinkled with sesame or poppy.
Baguette	unknown	Yet another type of bread from Greenfields.
Blackbread	25 cp	A tasty bread made from finely ground Wastel flour mixed with strong molasses from Amn.
Butterbun	unknown	A dinner roll from the Western Heartlands, often baked in a dozen.
Crackers	3-dozen piece package = 5 sp	Either plain or flavored with herbs and spices from the Dalelands. Popular flavors included Onion, Garlic, Pepper, and Savory.
Donut	unknown	A type of sweet handfood from Chemcheaux in Ravens Bluff, bur virtually unknown anywhere else on Faerûn.
Elven bread	2 gp	Made only in Evermeet. It was a light, sweet, fine-grained bread with extraordinary nutritional value. (The bread acted as very light-weight, double-strength iron rations.)
Elvish seedcake	unknown	A loaf or bite-sized handfood made with crushed aniseed, caraway, and coriander seeds. Some seedcakes possessed healing properties.
Fruitcakes	1 tin of fruitcake = 10 gp	Studded with dried fruits and nuts, and flavored with rum or brandy from the Pirate Isles of the Inner Sea. They could sometimes be found in decorative tins.
Gingerbread	1 tin = 1 gp	Made with ginger from Shou Lung. They could sometimes be found in decorative tins.
Hangman's noose	unknown	Fried sweet bread dusted with powdered sugar and spices found in the land of Halruaa.
Hard-tack	dozen pieces = 10 cp	Made from flour and water. It was dry and bland, but kept for a very long time, so it was good on long sea voyages.
Helm's Hold Journeybread	unknown	Simple and long-lasting hard biscuits from the citadel of Helm's Hold.

Honeyed bun	unknown	A sweet treat from Arrabar.
Klarvel	unknown	Also known as ring-loaf, was a type of lightly-sweetened or savory rye bread from the Lake of Steam and the Vilhon Reach.
Noodles	1 lb. of imported noodles = 15 gp	Normally found in Kara-Tur. Kozakuran Udon noodles were fat, white, and long; they were usually simmered with onion and bits of cooked egg. Soba was a fine, thin, vermicelli-like, buckwheat noodle from Wa; it was usually simmered in a broth made from green tea. Bean Curd Noodles were from Shou Lung; they were made from tofu. Ramen was a very curly noodle that cooks in minutes.
Nutbread	unknown	A cheap type of dark bread, often served with soups and cheeses, and most commonly seen in Cormyr and nations nestled around the Sea of Fallen Stars.
Roundloaf	unknown	A type of bread that was known to be served hard-crustied at the bakery of the same name.
Salbread	unknown	A popular type of bread baked by the halflings of Luiren.
Sourdough	2 lb. loaf = 15 sp	From the Pirate Isles of the Inner Sea.
Spread bread	unknown	A simple type of food made with crusty rolls smothered in garlic butter and a fish paste of silverlings.
Sword Mountains spice cake	unknown	Obnoxiously-spiced and glazed sweet cake from the hamlets of Sword Mountains.
Tarts	unknown	Pastry shells baked in Waterdeep that could hold savory or sweet food inside.
Thaek bun	unknown	Spicy meat, mushroom, onion, and tomato-stuffed buns from the city of Arrabar.
Tortilla	2 dozen imported pieces= 25 gp	From Maztica. It was made of mayz, which was a grain native to Maztica.
Wafer	unknown	Thin and crispy types of bread, topped with sweet jellies or savory liver spreads.

Sidebar: Forgotten Realms Wiki

All the information in the table about the unique bread types across the world of Toril comes from the Forgotten Realms fan wiki and were not written by me in this supplement. For more details and over 46,000 pages of official canon lore on the Forgotten Realms I would recommend anyone to go to www.forgottenrealms.fandom.com.

The Hell of Baking

Image "Orc Baker commission, - G I I H -"

One major belief different of a paladin or cleric of the bread god to a any other branch of healer in the idea of Hell. In the grand cosmology of things, Hell (and all of the Lower Plane for that matter) have been tied to evil. In a true bread god followers mind, The Nine Hell represent a infinitely gargantuan oven which bakes everything and anything placed within.

Since in the Great Wheel Cosmology model The Nine Hells is born from the Elemental Planes of Fire the four fold process of baking can be completed. This extremely unique perspective of artisanal baking being reflected in the cosmos pertains only to clerics and paladins of the bread god. Unlike common bakers, followers of this peculiar belief perfect their daily baking routines by this great model.

The process of bread baking begins with the weighting of the ingredients on a scale just like Bytopia is split equally in two. Next, moving clockwise around the Great Wheel Cosmology model the ingredients are symbolically tested for their purity by sowing the flour in Elysium.

As we reach the Beastlands the mixing process begins. As we pass through Arborea and Ysgard the mixing continues as different ingredients are added. In Arborea and Ysgard reside the Norse and Greek pantheon which might represent in different cultures some aspect of baking.

The final mixing occurs in the CN plane of Limbo as it passes through Pandemonium and is resolved to kneading in The Abyss. The kneading symbolically ends in Cerceri were the proofing process takes place. Due to the dull NE tone of Hades the dough must rest within this plane before starting to be folded and prepared for the oven.

In Gehenna the dough is folded proofed once more and shoved into the oven of The Nine Hells. Upon starting the actual baking process the bread goes into a state of completion in Acheron. As the bread is taken out of the oven and the “battle” with the heat is over, a more organized and LN distribution of the bread occurs in Mechanus. The last symbolic step between the consumer (Mount Celestia) and producer is the glazing of the baked good. This step takes place in the plane of Arcadia.

After sixteen laborious steps the circle is complete as the bread arrives to the “dining room” of Mount Celestia. After pay is collected the process begins anew with the splitting of the ingredients...

This belief and ideology of the grand cosmology translating into the daily work of a baker allows for deeper connection with the deity of the bread god, whoever they may be. As a paladin or a cleric of the bread god it is important to take to heart this belief and reflect the baking process into other daily habits including in combat.

Some integrated battle strategies of paladins and clerics of the bread god include; healing through consumption, battling with barter rather than weapon, staying ahead of the enemy in supplies, and tiring out the enemy. These strategies reflect the more community based baking skills in direct combat.

Image “The Lorehold Cook Hubert Greengrove”

Sidebar: Great Wheel Cosmology

The reference to the Great Wheel Cosmology is from the 5th edition Players Handbook on pg. 300-303.

Appendix A: Item & Spells

Equipment

The Cook’s Utensils in the 5th edition Players Handbook have a no description what so ever. Below is a more details description and listing of what specifically a baker will need, and what such a kit contains. The rules of the Baker’s Supplies are the same as the Cook’s Utensils in the 5th edition Players Handbook.

Baker's Supplies

A baker has the ability to create delicious and filling foods from a few easy to find ingredients. Having a baker within your adventure party not only makes the rations taste better but also increase their life-time.

Components. Baker's supplies include a pastry brush, a whisk, stirring spoons, a rolling pin, a sieve, a bread knife, an assortment of baking pans, and oven mittens.

Religion. Your understanding of the baking process and its translation into the Great Wheel cosmology allows you to perfect your baking skill and procedure.

Medicine. When you bake your bread you can infuse it with nutritionally higher doses of magic which boost whoever eats it with energy.

Survival. When supplies are scarce you have the ability to scrap up even the smallest bits of ingredients into a full baked good.

Prepare Meals. As part of a long rest you can prepare and bake up to 3 + your level loafs of bread or hardtack. Each piece of hardtack or loaf of bread possessed enough nutrition as a single ration. You can only use this ability as long as you have enough supplies to bake the loafs.

Image "ArtStation - Explore"

Baker's Supplies

Activity	DC
Create a common loaf of bread	10
Bake a duplicate pastry	10
Notice any poison or hollow in a baked good	15
Bake a rare and exotic pastry	15

Other Supplies

While the tools used in baking are crucial to the process so are the ingredients and their quality. Below is a list of goods and ingredients used in baking along with their costs.

Other Supplies

Cost	Good/Ingredient
2 cp	1 lb. of flour (wheat, oats, rye, millet, quinoa, barley, or other grains)
5 cp	1 lb. salt or cows milk or 1 gallon of fruit jelly
12 cp	1 lb. (8) chicken eggs or butter
1 gp	1 lb. of ginger or yeast or nuts (almonds, hazelnuts, pecans, pine nuts, or walnuts)
2 gp	1 lb. cinnamon or pepper
15 gp	1 lb. saffron or sugar (from sugarbeets)
100 gp - 1,200 gp	1 lb. vanilla beans

Sidebar: Players Handbook in-combo with Xanathar's Guide to Everything

The references in the 5th edition Players Handbook for the Cook's Utensils, and other supplies can be found on pgs. 154, 157-158. The new description of the Baker's Supplies was adapted from Xanathar's Guide to Everything of the description and details of the Cook's Utensils on pg. 80-81. The table of Other Supplies was adapted and expanded from the table in the 5th edition Players Handbook on pg. 157.

Magical items

In the magical worlds of Dungeons & Dragons many magic users, divine and arcane alike, infuse their energy into items. Specifically in the Forgotten Realms a few ordinary items used for baking can make the job of baking easier, faster and more effective when imbued with magic. Additionally, unique tools and weapons have also been created by bread god followers to aid them in healing, protecting, and blessing the community around them.

Nurgle's Bread Knife

Weapon (greatsword), rare (attunement required)

This single-edged greatsword has a serrated blade and a wooden grip with a handful of mummified garlic cloves strung to its pommel. You can use a bonus action to cause the serrated blade to become coated in garlic juice.

When you hit a creature with an attack, Nurgle's Bread Knife deals an additional 3d6 acid damage in addition to the greatsword normal damage. When you hit a creature the garlic coating is used and another bonus action must be used to reactivate the ability. You can use this ability up to 30 times and you regain all expended uses daily at dusk.

Baker's Apron

Wondrous item, uncommon

This canvas plaid apron appears to have sown on it hundreds of pockets. This apron's hundreds of pockets act like an extra dimensional space to keep all of a Baker's necessary tools. Each pocket ranges from ½ inches in diameter to 16 inches in diameter. In total, all of the pockets combined can hold up to 5 pounds not exceeding 864 cubic inches of objects. The apron weights 1 pound regardless of its content. If this apron takes more than 10 slashing, piercing, fire, or acid damage it is destroyed and dumps all of its content into the Astral Plane.

None of the pockets can be turned inside-out since they are sown onto the apron. Furthermore, if the baker's apron was to be placed inside a bag of holding, portable hole, or a similar item both items would be instantly destroyed and portal to the Astral Plane would be opened. The gate originates where the one item was placed inside the other. Any creature within 10 feet of the gate is sucked through it to a random location on the Astral Plane. The gate then closes. The gate is one-way only and can't be reopened.

Spells

Since the bread god paladins and clerics have taken on a more artisanal way of divine magic they rely on a couple fundamental spells. Below is a list of some unique spells which paladins and clerics of the bread god deity use in battle and in the kitchen.

The following table has specific spells for paladins and clerics listed in alphabetical order:

Cleric Spells	Paladin Spells
Baker's basket Cookie bites Leaven bread Oven Summon garlic bread	Aura of nourishment Baker's basket Cookie bites Powdery smite Summon garlic bread

Aura of Nourishment

3rd-level evocation

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Self (30-foot radius)

Components: V

Duration: Concentration, up to a 1 minute

Nourishing energy radiates from you in a 30-foot radius aura. Until the spell ends, the aura moves with you, centered on you. Each nonhostile creature (including you) that spends a turn in the aura gains the benefits of a short rest and enough nourishment to sustain that creature for one day. Each effected creature can only benefit once from this spell per casting.

Baker's Basket

3rd-level transmutation

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S, M (a handful strands of wicker)

Duration: 1 hour

You create a worn wicker basket which you can easily carry in one hand. The basket acts as a dimensional space into the Astral Plane. The basket can contain up to 6 cubic feet (3 feet by 2 feet by 1 foot) of baking good or any other item which is not a weapon, armor, or a living creature. The 6 cubic feet must not exceed 50 pounds of weight.

The basket appears within the crook of your arm when you cast the spell. While the basket remains unsummoned it floats in the Astral Plane. After 60 days, there is a 5 percent chance per day that the spell will fail to summon the basket. Once this occurs the basket and all of its content is lost in the Astral Plane.

Cookie Bites

1st-level transmutation

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: V, S, (a bit of raw dough)

Duration: Instantaneous

You split the dough into 10 bite-sized bits of baked energy bombs. A creature can use its action to eat one cookie bomb and restore up to 1 + the caster's proficiency hit points. The bread bites become stale and loose their magical property after 24 hours of casting this spell.

Leaven Bread

Transmutation cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: Touch

Components: S

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

You have mastered the art of baking to such a degree that magic flows from your into your products. When baking any bread or baked good you can reduce the time it would normally take to bake by one half the time. This only functions if you remain concentration for the full minute.

Oven

Conjuration cantrip

Casting Time: 1 action

Range: 10 feet

Components: V, S, M (a clay brick from a baker's oven)

Duration: 10 hours

You can create a temporary wood-fire oven equipped with everything you need to bake perfect loaves of bread. The oven can be placed anywhere within range of the spell and occupies a 5 foot diameter cube. The oven's appearance is determined by the caster and it has a oven belly big enough to bake up to 9 cubic feet of bread. Additionally the oven has a 3 foot by 2 foot door which can be closed and opened as an action.

If a creature is placed in the oven it takes 1d8 fire damage every turn until it is baked alive or is removed from the oven. Furthermore the oven creates warming heat in a 10 foot radius from its center and acts like a fireless bonfire.

At Higher Levels. The spell's internal space increases by 2 cubic feet when you reach 5th level (11 cubic feet), 11th level (13 cubic feet), and 17th level (15 cubic feet).

Powdery Smite

1st-level evocation

Casting Time: 1 bonus action

Range: Self

Components: V

Duration: Concentration, up to 1 minute

Your weapon gets coated in powdered baking flour, each time you hit a creature with a melee weapon attack during the spell's duration a cloud of flour explodes around that creature. In addition to the damage of the weapon the hit creature must make a Constitution saving throw or be blinded as the flour settles all over them.

While blinded this way a creature loses any invisibility conditions or features which would allow that creature to remain unseen. Furthermore, a creature blinded by this spell can make another saving throw at the end of each of their turns, ending the blinded effect on itself with a success.

Summon Garlic Bread
1st-level conjuration

Casting Time: 1 action
Range: 120 feet
Components: V, S
Duration: Instantaneous

You summon a piece of Garlic Bread from the Garlic Bread dimension at a point within range. It is delicious.

At Higher Levels. When you cast this spell using a spell slot of 2nd level or higher, you summon one additional piece of Garlic Bread for each spell level above 1st.

Sidebar: D&D Wiki

The spell summon garlic bread was created by the D&D Wiki as a April fools prank. Their homebrew content always sparks interest in many D&D projects and I would highly recommend visiting their website at www.dandwiki.com.

Appendix B: Feats

Baking

When you take this feat you gain +1 WIS and can bake the equivalent of 0 level spells. The baking feat provides the following additional benefits:

- You gain proficiency in Wisdom (Baking).
- Baked Spell. You can mimic a 0-level spell by making a Baking check vs the spell level of 10 + Spell Level. For example, a level 1 baked spell has a DC of 11. Spells that you can bake generally should only fall into the buff/enhancement as well as healing schools of magic. The DM has final say on what spell you can or cannot turn into a pastry. You can only make the check once a day and requires access to an oven (or equivalent), 1 hour of time and the cost of the required flour (1 lbs per attempt at 4 cp per bag). Even on a failure your food is edible and may be used as 1 days ration.
- You may expand the recipe list of your baked spells by spending XP to learn a specific spell to bake and spending a week perfecting the recipe. You spend 100 XP per spell (the spell level). For example, a level 1 spell costs 100 XP to create a recipe for and 1 week of research/practice time. A level 9 spell costs you 900 XP and 1 week of practice.
- You can not learn to bake a spell that is higher than your level equivalent of a cleric. For example, you must be level level 5 to bake 3rd level spells.

Bread Expert

Your time spent in the kitchen and around the oven has payed off, when you take this Feat you gain the following abilities:

- You gain proficiency with Baker's Supplies (Cook's Utensils) if you already don't have them.
- When you use the Prepare Meals ability of your Baker's Supplies you gain 2 additional loaf of bread or hardtack.
- During a long rest you can spend your time to infuse your divine healing into the bread you are baking. You must have enough ingredients to bake the break and at least enough heat to properly bake the bread, such as created by the oven spell. After the long rest is over you bake 3 + your proficiency bonus magical loaves of bread. Each loaf of bread requires an action to be consumed and restories 1d8 + your proficiency bonus hit points.

Sidebar: Electric Rain D&D Blog

The Feat Baking was created by solomani on the Electric Rain D&D Blog. I have slightly adapted some of the description specifically to this supplement. Feel free to check out their adventures at www.electric-rain.net.

Appendix C: Credits/References

Images

Image "DnD Cook"

Unknown artist

Image "Loaf of Bread, Jari Hirvikoski"

Jari Hirvikoski

Tampere, Finland

jarva.artstation.com

Image "Orc Waiter by JohnoftheNorth on DeviantArt"

JohnoftheNorth

United States

www.deviantart.com/johnofthenorth

Image "ArtStation - Explore"

Unknown Artist, www.artstation.com

Image "The Lorehold Cook Hubert Greengrove"

Santiago Iborra

Valencia, Spain

www.santharia.com

Image “Orc Baker commission, - G I I H -”
- G I I H -

Freelancer illustrator

Goiânia, Brazil

giih.artstation.com

Image “He Got His Bread by Devin Elle Kurtz”
www.reddit.com/r/ImaginaryDragons

Books/Sources

---

Reference “Garlic Bread Domain”, D&D Beyond

WillowTehKitsune

Reference “Garlic Bread Domain”, Lady of Luck

https://www.reddit.com/user/lady\_of\_luck/

Spell “Summon Garlic Bread”

https://www.dandwiki.com/wiki/Summon\_Garlic\_Bread\_\(5e\_Spell\))

Feat “Baking”

<https://www.electric-rain.net/2022/03/21/baking-5e-feat/comment-page-1/>

Reference “Forgotten Realms Wiki”

<https://forgottenrealms.fandom.com/wiki/Bread>

Reference “Great Wheel Cosmology”

Player's Handbook (Dungeons & Dragons). Wizards of the Coast Publishing, 2014. Pgs. 300-303

Reference “Electric Rain D&D Blog”

<https://www.electric-rain.net/2022/03/21/baking-5e-feat/comment-page-1/>

Reference “Players Handbook in-combo with Xanathar’s Guide to Everything”

Player's Handbook (Dungeons & Dragons). Wizards of the Coast Publishing, 2014. Pgs. 154, 157-158

Xanathar's Guide to Everything. Wizards of the Coast Publishing, 2017. Pgs. 80-81